Provenance: Gifted to Nelson Dean Jay Jr. (1911-1993) married to Diana Draper Jay (1913-1973) as a wedding present by Diego Suarez, Portuguese Ambassador to France on their wedding day, February 14th, 1936. Nelson's father, Nelson Dean Jay Sr. (1883-1970's) started as vice president for the First National Bank of Milwaukee. He was hired by J.P. Morgan in 1914 and then served on General Pershing's Paris staff during WWI. After the war he stayed with J.P. Morgan heading their Paris offices. While under his leadership, Morgan made a large loan to Portugal in behalf of International Telephone & Telegraph (ITT) which built the country's modern utility. Upon hearing that Nelson Dean Jay's son (NDJ Jr.) was getting married, friend Diego Suarez (Portuguese Ambassador to France) purchased this painting at the Michael Knoedler Gallery in New York and presented it as a wedding gift in 1936. Bequeathed to son George B. Jay (b.1937) Washington State.
